INTRODUCTION

Research suggests that the most effective people are those who understand themselves, both their strengths and weaknesses, so they can develop strategies to meet the demands of their environment.

An individual's talents and personal skills are a fundamental and integral part of who they are.

In this report we are measuring three dimensions of thought. They are:

- * Intrinsic - People
- * Extrinsic - Tasks or things
- * Systemic - Systems

This report analyzes talents; that is, a person's ability to do things. Is the report 100% true? Yes, no and maybe. As you review your report, please determine which items are job related. This will give you insight as to where to begin development.

WORLD VIEW

This is how Mel sees the world around him. This view measures his clarity and understanding of people, tasks and systems. It could also be looked at in terms of feeling, doing and thinking from an external standpoint. The statements below are based primarily on the 3 dimensions on the left side of the dimensional balance page and are in a random order.

- Mel generally relates to work or tasks from both practical and interpersonal perspectives.
- He has the capacity to be empathic and sensitive to people.
- He tends to view rules and systems as flexible guidelines, versus being set in stone.
- He tends to underemphasize systems, which includes rules and policies.
- Mel tends to involve others in the completion of tasks or projects.
- He could benefit from making a conscious effort to develop better two-way communication with authority figures.
- He will perform best in a productive environment in which contributions are recognized, properly rewarded, and appreciated.
- He may benefit from asking authority figures to explain the reason for certain rules or systems to better understand them.
- Mel will work best in a cooperative atmosphere in which decisions are shared.

SELF VIEW

This is how Mel sees himself. This view measures his clarity and understanding of himself, his roles in life and his direction for the future. The internal dimensions are a reflection of him from both personal and professional viewpoints. The statements below are based primarily on the 3 dimensions on the right side of the dimensional balance page and are in a random order.

- Mel puts little to no emphasis on who he is as an individual.
- He can envision his own self-defined success.
- He tends to focus on the responsibilities of his current life roles.
- He tends to place a higher priority on his roles and future rather than who he is.
- Mel could benefit from a clearer understanding of who he is as an individual.
- He has the capacity to plan and organize for his future.
- He needs to understand that he is important outside of his roles and direction.
- He can be so focused on achievements that tasks take priority over feeling good about himself.
- Mel tends to place low emphasis on appreciating himself, which results in a lower sense of self.
